

Tentative modules LfEC 2014 (dates to be determined) and several modules still undernegotiation with teachers and trainers.

Leadership weekend 1 Marjon van Opijnen Damaris Matthijsen Co-trainer in negotiation Prof. Herman Wijffels	Friday 17pm – Sunday 17pm Kick off – Personal vision Transition does not only come with theoretical knowledge about the economy and transition processes. This weekend we will make a start with the leadership part of the programme. What is it that you bring? What are your values, talents and pitfalls? Your personal reflection and sharing will result in your personal life vision. Inspiring evening speech : An introduction on the old and new economics
Module 1 - theory Prof. dr. Klaas van Egmond Martijn van der Linden	Friday afternoon 1pm – 6pm The economics of our economy: old and new paradigms On a daily basis we see what is around us. But, how did we actually end up where we are now? This module will give you deeper understanding of the history of economics and the historical perspective of world views in relation to this. You will better understand the initial basis of economics and how this evolved in time.
Module 2 - theory Martien Steenbergem Prof. dr. Dick Bezemer Helen Toxopeus	Friday afternoon 1pm – 6pm Monetary system in perspective The word economics make people instantly think about money. However, the importance of the money-industry is surprisingly recent. The combination of commercial money-creation and the price of money (interest) has created an inherently inflationary system, which blows itself up (grows) until it pops (crisis, recession). We will take two modules to further explore the monetary system in itself and literally play with it.
Module 3 - theory Sarah Denie Edgar Kampers	Friday afternoon 1pm – 6pm The price of everything, the value of nothing: real & phantom values In this module you will explore how we perceive value in our economic system and how values could give a different understanding than only as monetary parts of the economy.

Module 4 - theory

Sarah Denie
Willem Ferweda

Friday afternoon 1pm – 6pm

Inner and outer transition perspective

Change happens continuously; it is part of the continuing cycles of life and death. Most people (and even economists) are perfectly aware of this, yet many still struggle to deal with change, ride the waves of change, make change or influence its direction. In this module theory of systemic change and a spectrum of alternative schools of economic thought will be covered and experienced.

Leadership weekend 2

Marjon van Opijnen
Damaris Matthijsen
Co-trainer in negotiation

Friday 17pm – Sunday 17pm

Leadership in transition

Transition takes leaders and followers; it also takes understanding of processes and structures at many different levels. Personal levels, but also the way it is organised in a broader perspective. How do we deal with for example ownership in the economy, or with value or with nature. Different aspects will be brought together based on the 6-dimensions model of Economy Transformers. We will look at options and at barriers at personal and societal level.

Module 5 – theory

Peter Merry

Friday afternoon 1pm – 6pm

The inner dynamics of change

In this module we will explore why people and systems change and why they don't. During the module dynamics of evolutionary change will be shared, and a feeling the process of dying to something old, birthing something new, and sitting in stillness in between. This module will combine new science, ancient wisdom and what is emerging in the moment.

Co-creation

Facilitator in negotiation

Friday afternoon 1pm – 6pm

Future vision, the economy in 2030.

Together with your fellow colleagues, students, alumni and other external experienced and knowledgeable people in the area of new economies, you will co-create a future vision on the economy in 2033. This future vision will be the basis for your transition plan. And this afternoon will be a great opportunity to take your fellows along on your journey.

Leadership weekend 3

Marjon van Opijnen
Damaris Matthijsen

Co-trainer in negotiation

Friday 17pm – Sunday 17pm

Matching it all!

Module 6 - skills

Trainer in negotiation

Friday afternoon 1pm – 6pm

Transition plan support

At the Economic Exchange Conference (see below) you will challenge your transition for a renowned jury. During this module we will discuss ground rules for your transition plan that you will write for your case. And you will be guided on the approach that you may want to take.

Module 7 - skills

Trainer in negotiation

Friday afternoon 1pm – 6pm

Telling your story and get the public along

Having a plan is one thing, getting it across is a second. Background knowledge and practicing and practicing and practicing is what is needed.

Module 8 - skills

Trainer in negotiation

Friday afternoon 1pm – 6pm

How to get others to cooperate?

Each person needs its own story, approach and language. We will discuss how you can get people to cooperate and what story is needed based on different values people believe in. The main entry point we will take is Spiral Dynamics.
